

Abstract

A method for manufacturing a white light source provides an LED light source and a semiconductor-type phosphor with (Zn, Cd)S being the host with foreign ions added thereto as luminescence centers. The LED light source emits 5 light ranging from 495nm about (blue-green light) to about 340nm (ultra-violet).